Moose Chase At Lake

A number of picknickers Buffalo lake yesterday had the rather thrilling experience of securing an exceptionally close-up view of a large cow moose which had Rydersland and broken its legs to the point on R. B. Bailey's farm, or the old Ryder place.

When nearing the mainland, the appearance of several persons, possibly a party, evidently caused the moose to turn about and it started to return to the island. At this juncture a number of persons in a motor boat took up the chase, and for an instant a half dozen kept after the moose.

The would get within very close range when the animal would make a sharp turn, and before the boat could maneuver to get alongside, the moose had made considerable headway towards the opposite side of the lake. The moose made great speed in the water, and finally when within a short distance the upper teeth of his body could be seen to great advantage.

The onlookers who were watching the chase from Mr. Bailey's place could hardly believe an excellent snapshot of the moose at the outset, had they been in possession of a camera. The ultimate result of the motor-moose chase has not yet been heard.

B.C. OPPOSED TO RESTORATION OF CROWS NEST RATE

Vancouver.—The fight for abrogation of the Crow's Nest Pass freight rates agreement and for the equalization of the general schedule of freight rates in the West is on.

The B.C. Board of Trade is back at the movement, and has decided that definite action must be taken at once. A committee appointed to consider the matter has drafted the required demand to be forwarded to Dominion Railway Company at Ottawa.

"The Vancouver Board of Trade," says the resolution, "has made application to your board to grant a hearing to enable them to give evidence before your board bearing on the general discussion of the rates and the position of the manufacturer and the producer in this province, and the commercial interests, in general of the province, during the suspended Crow's Nest Pass agreement of June, 1897, which was agreed to on July 27th."

Want To Establish An African State

Negroes Holding International Convention in New York During August

New York.—Announcement of an international convention of negroes to be held in this city throughout August, under the auspices of the Negro Improvement Association, was made in a full page advertisement appearing in a New York newspaper. Parades, demonstrations and other activities of a negro political union to protect the rights of the race throughout the world, were announced as the principal items of the programme.

Petitions on behalf of 4,000 negroes in the United States will be presented to President Coolidge asking "his consideration for their desire" to peacefully build up a country of their own in their homelands. After the close of the advertisement, Stetson petitions on behalf of 2,000,000 West Indian negroes also will be presented to King George and the British Parliament, it is stated.

Retail Merchants' Convention

Will Advocate Handling of Made-in-Canada Goods Exclusively

Montreal.—Representatives from each province in the Dominion will attend the annual meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association to be held in Montreal on Sept. 10th. The annual session will be presided over by G. A. Bainfield, of Winnipeg; Dominion President, and all matters affecting the retail trade will be discussed.

The association will appoint the usual members on a board to watch provincial and federal legislation, among other duties, and to see that the retail merchants get fair treatment in all matters affecting their business.

Secretary Laprade, of the Quebec division, stated that an effort would be made to have all merchants handle nothing but made-in-Canada goods.

Customs Revenue Increases

$112 Twenty Millions Less Than Corresponding Period Last Year

Ottawa.—Customs and excise revenues, which have declined since the beginning of the fiscal year, are now showing signs of recovery. In the month which closed today the total was $2,164,540, an increase of $2,456,624 over June, but a decrease of $1,000,000 over May.

Customs revenue alone in July was $10,482,432, against $9,323,264 in June.

Total customs and excise collections for the four months of the fiscal year to date totalled $73,338,993, a decrease of approximately 15 per cent. compared with the corresponding four months of last year.

Police Unable To Rescue Major Imrie

Every Effort Made When Mob Attack At Tehran Say Diplomats. London—According to the Morning Post, the Persian legation here is in receipt of an official statement from Tehran, declaring that, contrary to other advice, the Persian police failed to rescue the major general, Sir Major Imrie, the United States Vice-Consul, who was killed by a mob in the Persian capital. One policeman was killed in this affair and several injured. It was stated that, failing to prevent the crowd from breaking into the Hospital where Major Imrie had been received, it is declared that practically everybody implicated in the hospital attack.

The Government stated that some days prior to the disturbance, much seething feeling existed in the Persian capital, and that the disturbances going on in Tehran. The police and soldiers, therefore, had been cautioned to avoid any action tending to aggravate the excited condition of the crowd, the reason not for a second anticipating that grounds would arise for an attack on foreign residents. It was in view of this, the statement adds, that the police withheld fire upon the mob when Major Imrie was attacked.

Australia To Ask Reciprocal Trade

Will Shortly Open Negotiations For a Treaty With Canada

Sydney, Australia.—Negotiations will shortly proceed with a view to Australia obtaining reciprocal trade with Canada, New Zealand and South Africa, Austin Chapman, Federal Minister of Trade and Commerce, announced.

Mr. Chapman referred to a section of the current reciprocity bill as being a British model and declared that the art and dunting sum set was essential to Australia's protective policy.

Ottawa.—Negotiations for a reciprocal trade treaty between Australia and Canada will be opened in the fall of this year, Hon. Austin Chapman, at the time Minister of Trade and Commerce, paid a visit to Australia to negotiate. The Canadian government discussions on the Imperial Tariff last year, and subsequently Senator William of Australia, visited Ottawa to confer with the Dominion government. There was an exchange of preferences, but Australia could not see her way to full acceptance.

Conciliation Board For Miners

Will Investigate Wage Dispute Between Edmonton Operators and Employees

Ottawa.—James Smith, of Edmonton, has been appointed chairman of a Board of Conciliation which will investigate the wage dispute between Edmonton coal operators and their employees. In the absence of any conciliation agreement, Mr. Smith, a Laborer, Hon. James Murdoch, has appointed Mr. Smith to preside over the board, on which the employers will be represented by R. G. Drinan and the miners by F. J. Reid. The object of the investigation is to determine what a new wage agreement.

The announcement was not without complete silence on the part of officials at the state department, but at the navy department, Secretary Wilbur, in speaking on the basis of personal representations he may have received, declared that "It is a good idea to have the question raised in order to have a settlement." The announcement in London, it is said, came in this connection, has served to give the question a diplomatic status it has not before known.

So far as the Washington Government is concerned, there has been no reply to the British representations. The Prince of Wales' cattle exhibition by the Prince of Wales also won for its royal owner the title of champion and reserve champion. The championship in Hampshire ewes was another success for the royal ranch at Pukitok, Alberta.

BRITISH PROTEST OVER RANGE OF BATTLESHIP GUNS

Washington.—Discussions in London that the British Government has made formal representations to the United States and Japan, contending that, in my opinion, any increase in the elevations of the guns of existing battleships under the Washington naval limitation treaty would be a breach of that treaty, gave an entirely new aspect to the question of the subject, which has been in progress in the United States for two years or more.

The announcement was not without complete silence on the part of officials at the state department, but at the navy department, Secretary Wilbur, in speaking on the basis of personal representations he may have received, declared that "It is a good idea to have the question raised in order to have a settlement." State Cavalry Clash With Mob At Kashmin

Seven Rioters Were Killed In Northern India Demonstration

Calcutta.—Seven rioters were killed and 40 wounded in a conflict between the British and a number of forces of the cavalry in the northern Indian town of Kashmin, according to press despatches.

News of trouble seldom comes from this part of the country, but the situation here is so serious that the military authorities have now the situation in hand.

Printed leaflets without any signature, or anything to indicate their origin, were being circulated here, urging that the British revolutionary council has passed a resolution to begin a campaign of ruthless assassination. The object of these leaflets is to cause stampede of the native police force, who hitherto have remained stanch. The circulation of these threatening documents is a recurrence of some similar war in 1915.

To Seek Protection From Effects Of Death Ray

New York.—Efforts to find a method of protection against the "death ray" recently discovered by H. G. Gredell Matthews, the British expert now visiting this country, are already underway, and the interest of the ray is playing a prominent role in the thought of the experts. The ray, it is believed, is the result of the impairment of eyes from the secret properties of the ray. Dr. Henry H. Beers, who conducted research work on the determining cause of the ray and its effect on bodily tissue in the hope that some material may be found which will shield off or obviate the ray in the same manner that rubber, lead and paraffin give protection against the X-ray and radium rays.

All Political Parties Should Have Interest In Railway Says Thornton

Vancouver.—Speaking here at a luncheon tendered in his honor by the Canadian Club and the Board of Trade, Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Canadian National Railway, declared it is the responsibility of every political party to keep politics out of the railroads and other departments of the railway, but it was more difficult to meet unfair claims for political prestige.

Thornton said he could understand, "when all political parties should feel that they have a direct interest in the railway. The railway belongs to the political party, and one way to keep politics out of the railway is to keep the railway in the hands of the Canadian people. The intention of some is to give political representation to all political parties, with most outstanding business ability representing each political group."

Sir Henry said that certain political negotiations might result from the establishment of the railway freight rates under the Crow's Nest agreement should this mean a general reduction of freight rates throughout Canada.

If the restoration of the Crow's Nest agreement means a new and lower scale of freight rates throughout Canada, then I can say that the position of the two great railway systems will be settled," he said.

B.C. Coal Fire

Dangerous Stage Again Reached On Victoria, B.C.

The forest fire situation in British Columbia has reached a dangerous stage again, a report in the Victoria Daily Times says. The weather throughout the province is very dry, with little rain falling weekly. The forest fires are spreading rapidly and will probably reach the coast in a few weeks.

So far this year, there have been 127 fires, compared with 200 at this time last year, and 1,533 in 1922. Vancouver district, with 308 outbreaks, has suffered most to date.

DATE SET FOR EMPIRE PARLEY IS TOO EARLY

Ottawa.—There are difficulties in the way of holding the proposed round-table conference of the Empire so early as October. It is pointed out here, so far as Canada is concerned, that it is easier to go to London than to come to Ottawa.

In the case of the more distant Dominions, the difference would be greater. Apart from the question of distance, New Zealand seems to be on the eve of a general election, which would make it practically impossible for Premier Massey to leave on short notice.

In Australia, difficulties are likely to be encountered. The Commonwealth of Australia is slated for retirement, but it is not clear whether the new government will be able to meet the demands of the British delegation.

This might make it difficult for Premier Bruce to leave on short notice. In South Africa, General Herries, but lately elected premier, might not be available to receive the British delegation.

It is felt that about 4,000, it is stated, will be found within the province.

Canada Importing British Shoes

Ottawa.—Canada is importing British shoes, which were the theme of a large delegation of shoe manufacturers last session. The imports are still increasing. During the twelve months ended June, boots and shoes imported from the United Kingdom amounted to $447,439, an increase of 20 per cent.

British Rebels On The Move

Buenos Aires.—Reports reaching here from Southern Brazil state that the Brazilian rebels, ousted from Sao Paulo, and fleeing northwest, intend to cut their way through the front of the federal forces, and then swing south.

INCREASE IN VALUE OF ALL FARM PRODUCTS

Washington.—The agricultural situation in the United States promises farmers some increased economic leverage this year, the Department of Agriculture has announced, announcing that the value of purchasing power of farm products is slowly rising. At the beginning of July the index purchasing power of farm products was 100, representing 1913. This is 10 per cent. higher than at any time in the last four years. In its monthly review the department takes issue with those who believe that the value of the wheat crop last year is 102.

"It is possible that United States wheat growers will get from $100-$120,000,000 bushels, but assuming that they will sell something over $60,000,000 bushels," said the department. "This is considerably less than the amount of grain carried in some countries but represents an increased ability to pay debts and a general improvement in financial conditions in the wheat country."

The market price of wheat in 1922 was 19 cents a bushel, while the situation is not so good. Stands are extremely spotted, many fields being full of weeds, and much of the crop is far behind that will need some time to ripen. The market price of wheat in 1923 is 21 cents a bushel. The main factor in this is to give political parties a chance to influence the corn situation in its effect on live stock production and prices during the coming year. Expensive corn this year will probably result in a reduction of breeding stock in proportion. Unless history is a fathoms guide, hogs and pigs and grade cattle will be good property before this time in 1923.

Rains Benefit Crops

Improves Projects Over Area In Alberta and Saskatchewan

Calgary.—Clouds following in practically every part of the provinces have benefited immensely by the recent rains, says H. H. Herres, of the Alberta Department of Agriculture.

Studies in crop production and plowing will not be greatly changed except in the south, where many of them will produce a fair yield. A new crop will be brought in to the whole crop area, and the market price will be improved. The Alberta yield of 1922 was 100 bushels per acre, and 1923 is expected to be 105 bushels per acre.

So far as the rain has been concerned, the 1923 crop will be better. The north, rain has been abundant, especially in the interior, and the south, where the soil is dry, has been receiving a good share of rain.

On the main line east toward the south, the same conditions prevail, although yields will be better. In the north, rain has been abundant, especially in the interior, and the south, where the soil is dry, has been receiving a good share of rain.

In the case of the more distant Dominions, the difference would be greater. Apart from the question of distance, New Zealand seems to be on the eve of a general election, which would make it practically impossible for Premier Massey to leave on short notice.

Majority of Workers Will Be Secured In Coast Provinces

Edmonton.—A quarter of a million workers are to be brought in from the Old Country to help fill the labor needs of Alberta. The supply of workers will be secured nearer home, the majority coming probably from British Columbia.

Peter Smith, Labour Commissioner for the province, reports on his return from the international conference in Winnipeg, that an estimate of 67,000 men required in the three provinces for harvesting operations has been met and超出了 expectation.

During the last session, the Alberta legislature voted to increase the minimum wage for agriculture to $1.25 an hour, effective Aug. 1. This might be revised in accordance with crop reports in hand at that time.

It is estimated that about 4,000, it is stated, will be found within the province.

Premier Of Saskatchewan Speaks To Overseas League On Subject Of Immigration

Hon. Charles A. Dunning, Premier of Saskatchewan, has been delivering addresses in the Old Country, and at a distinguished gathering at a lunch at the Savoy Hotel, London, he said the "country" that appears to have been vitalized on his career makes him a "more or less romantic figure which my wife does not recognize." Mr. Dunning was invited to London by Sir George, by whom he was described as "the vice-premier in the British Empire," having attained that position at the age of 37.

"The young, daring, dynamic, courageous life in this country and life in the Old Country," "While," he said, "we cannot offer all the conveniences of a civilization such as that of London, we can offer you at least a better telephone service." He added, "We could not offer great urban centers, for 72 per cent. of the people are on the land in Saskatchewan, a feature which I regard as a healthy condition in the present state of development among us. We have no factories, industry only those who are prepared to work at agriculture as their vocation in life."

Mr. Dunning said that naturally those who were British born in Canada desired to see a substantial influx of British immigration into their land to the end that the British institutions which had been established might be maintained for the benefit of all. "I am not in favor of any legislation, a study of the lessons of history, taught them that when man kind was on the move in one of those great migratory movements it was impossible to stop the people from moving to preserve their favorite vacan spot of shelter for their own use when it was convenient for them to occupy it. That was the lesson of history. They might indeed be doing this period in history in Canada, but the gain against all those who were not of our blood. I was not an advocate of such a course, because he visited the land and found it so poor. In a period such as this and our rôle in a country such as this, there is no place for us to go to Canada where we do not belong."

"But it is hard to understand the attitude of mind which is illustrated in the statement that 'why should the Government do for us if we do not help ourselves?'" I am convinced of that, while the Government may do much in the way of advice and help for those who are willing to help themselves, it is not the Government's job to anoint a man or a woman the virtues of self-reliance and initiative, which the emigrant to a new land must possess if he is going to succeed. Any man or woman who is willing to go to Western Canada to loan some of the state or province, I am very pleased to invite him or her to stay at home. We want people in Western Canada and go to loan upon the state and make it what it should be."

Empire industrial development was broached by Mr. Dunning. "On all hands," he said, "there is the idea of the role of the Empire still persist—old that old conception great in its day, great in relation to some parts of the Empire today—the conception that these islands are the workshops of the Empire, and that the dominion and the colonies is to grow or raise raw materials to be shipped here, to the workshops, and then manufactured into finished products here, and then sent back again to the dominions. This conception fails to take into account the changes that have come about from the populating of these young dominions. The dominant genius of the British Empire is industrial, and in these great dominions and Canada, with a wealth of natural resources of all kinds, the genius of eight millions of people there truly British in character, is to develop those resources and manufacture them in their own country."

"There is a necessity for a new orientation on British industry. It is the industry not of these islands, but of the Empire, wherever located. Let's not forget the British blood has not followed that example to anything like the same extent?"

Again alluding to immigration, Mr. Dunning stated, "concerning Mr. H. G. Glazebrook, characterized as 'remarkable speech from a remarkable man,'" that "we cannot offer a man who comes to Saskatchewan sudden and easily-acquired wealth. We have to let the people judge by the standard of the Old Land, but then we have no poor people either."

judged by the standard of the Old Land. Any man who wants to work and isn't too particular what he works at, can get along all right in Saskatchewan. I know, because I "know" that appears to have been vitalized on his career makes him a "more or less romantic figure which my wife does not recognize." Mr. Dunning was invited to London by Sir George, by whom he was described as "the vice-premier in the British Empire," having attained that position at the age of 37.

Seymour took rapidly to the missionary, asking him to go to the trading post for the interpreter. In some such manner he had grasped the plot of this story.

"Aye, he speak them English," was his reply.

"Then tell me, where you get this gun?" Seymour demand. "Where is the gun? Where is the gun?" wittily he had fallen into the broken speech of the few natives who knew other than the language of the fangs.

Aye grimed wildly, showing every fang, in the openings between which clattered his teeth.

"I'm hungry all same," he said. "Put out there—where I go?" He gestured with his hand, and the men closed. "Stay by sled."

Seymour added this reply seemed to tickle the native's sense of humor. The lone folds of his parker rippled. Neither Seymour nor Morrow waited to learn if the man had a mirth, but dashed out the door.

In the hurried trail that followed La Martre had been most difficult for they recognized themselves were at ends and the country was all the sleeping bar which was lashed to his koinikat. He had "stay by sled" for a good reason. His leg was broken.

"Well, Charlie, I see you got your man," said Morrow. "He was most cheerful, as he steamed the sled which the dogs, under Morrow's guidance were pulling up the bank into the yard.

"No, Sarge, man no me." The response was in a voice weak from suffering.

They carried him into the house, sleeping him down on a couch, applying the painful ordeal of extracting the broken, unsooth limb from the fur-lined coat. They had been told of one of the foul tools that had been left from the interrupted feast. At Seymour's insistence, La Martre went into the kitchen to procure hot water for the impudent operation and a strong drink. The water, he said, would be in need afterward.

At the same time, North is something of a lay physician. Luke Morrow hurried to Miles Kerman, the doctor, and Astic sat on the hearth, contentedly munching a chunk of ham which gave the heart the taste away from him.

When the room was cleared, Sergeant Kerman and the cook stood for a low-voiced conference. "Is Aye under arrest?"

"I am not," he said, after all he's done for me," said the injured mountie. "I brought him along willingly enough, and I am not sorry about coming back to the post. Go easy on him, sergeant. I have been with him."

The arrest had to be made quickly, before Moira changed back into the room, and the sergeant could be sustained. Seymour said the Eskimo's attention, reminded him that he was a man of the law, and through the formal lines of arrest and warning, with the addition that it was "not to be a secret."

"Said," said the native, who had learned some of his English from Astic, "you say 'not to be a secret.' I save? What do? When we go?" Seymour did not understand the slight pun, but he had been too much in the mood to inquire into it. Leading Aye to the guard room, he turned over the care of the Eskimo to Osgood or, not as Eskimo etiquette might decree.

As Astic was locking the door of the cell room, Moira came from the kitchen with improvised aprons and a roll of bandages. She had been sent by the surgeon with the news that the patient, as the least painful way of removing the patient, and gently they carried him to the operating table in Seymour's quarters.

Morrow proposed an anaesthetic. First, however, he had to be declared, the honestest was just a clump, well-intended amateur. "Damme if I'll go out of my head for but a job of pain," the dejectedly explained.

"A whiff of ether will make it easier," he advised, his suggestion. "And I'll whisper it to you." La Martre is ready to admit it. "Says he." La Martre's black eyes gleamed a second in appreciation. Then, he said, "Aye, and that wouldn't be so bad." "But I've smelled the stuff before, and it doesn't seem to stop me from it. I tell all I know. We'll take no chances of ragging her with babbling about ether, though," said Luke Morrow. "Let's go, parson, and do your danderit to make me a straight man."

The operation took some time, the preliminary results of which Moira did help and perhaps her presence was as much as anything. The rate not a cent faster than the tips of the broken Mountain.

The patient finally was fastened and the patient refreshed with a cup of feather broth, Seymour asked the cost of the pursuit and added:

"If you'll hand my jacket—wrote words on it—then I'll give you a quarter."

He passed over his son's book. "Want to sleep now?"

The sergeant gave him his time.

"When we go?" Again came the question, sharp and direct.

"Not soon," answered Seymour with a shrug, "but we must turn that in. What old you do for the skins show to the factor?"

Gun-Running Plot

Aeroplane Machines Guns Smuggled From England to Russia
Imports are being made by the police into a gun-running expedition from London to Russia, in which an unknown foreign vessel and a London fishing smack co-operated.

Recently Yard had discovered that 55 machine guns had been shipped abroad under the nose of the authorities, and also that had the ring remained a secret gun-running on a much larger scale would have followed, until 1,000 guns had been got out of the country.

It is believed that the aeroplane machine guns, a fact considered significant in view of the large deliveries of aeroplanes to Russia from Germany.

It is known that the guns, which were bought by a London firearms dealer, were taken by him from the factory to a wharf not far from London Bridge. Here they were called for on board a London fishing smack and taken on board.

The smack then sailed to a point about 20 miles off the Gobards Lightship, east of Harwich, where it met a mysterious foreign vessel and transferred the guns to her. This vessel sailed for Portugal.

All the ports of England have been watched and many ships searched.

Humanity's Best Protector

Community Is Safe If Church Is Banished

The Church is human? Yes, but the very most important discipline most exact against her defects take greatest care to plant their human beneath her shadow. The Church is the greatest protector of human life and liberty that ever has been known.

The Church is the greatest friend of humanity that exists in the world today; even her bitterest enemies would probably not remain long in a community from which that church had been banished.

They might be reminded in this connection that a meager chorus of denunciation and assertion does not prove anything.—Winnipeg Free Press.

They will speedily rid a child of worms and restore him to health. The mother whose vitality has been impaired by the attacks of these internal pests.

The Order Of Precedence

Mentality of Eastern People Who Are Hostile Towards the H. B. Road

A lot of western people down east appear to think that since they are hostile to the opening of the Hudson Bay route the Government must convince them of the practicability of the route—which in view of their closed minds would be a rather large order—but doing anything further in the matter.

In view of the fact that Parliament has been committed to opening up the route for sixteen years and has spent two million dollars upon it, the Government, in its opinion, has a right to assume that it is of great practicality.

It is up to the opponents of the scheme by such means as they can devise to prove that it is not so. That the country's settled policy towards this undertaking is wrong.

They might be reminded in this connection that a meager chorus of denunciation and assertion does not prove anything.—Winnipeg Free Press.

A Good Investment

Big Business Houses Promote Advertising Is Most Important

Despite the many proofs of its value brought to notice every day, advertising continues to be a luxury to many merchants and others who believe it is a waste of money. This is a serious mistake.

Business houses, spending hundreds of thousands of dollars in advertising yearly, have proved by test, advertising is the most important high-paying investment they can make.

A certain percentage of a year's gross business is appropriated for advertising, while a certain amount of advertising return is guaranteed by any investment from any other investment that can be made.

The first trial, like patent medicines may not do the trick, but persistent, intelligent advertising will get results.—Placerville, Calif., Republican.

What "Gold-Filled" Means

"Gold-filled" on a piece of jewelry means that the article is covered with gold or that it is solid gold. What it does mean is that the article is plated extra heavily with gold.

It is one of the deep sea angler's unrepresented in the museum, and apparently related to the very old forms of fish sometimes found in fossils in the older rocks. It was captured by H. H. Brewster, St. Hubert, at a depth of 100 fathoms, at Thoreau's Head, between nine months and two years of age, and, with John Birang, of St. John's, Nfld., who finished at the top of the first class for infants, three to nine months, wins £100.

Kenya, son of Mount Forest, Ont., was one of the five babies in the first class who each receive a prize of £20.

Millions in Forest Products

The forests in Canada produce a volume of business amounting to $50,000,000 a year. This includes all kinds of lumber products.

We should conserve our forests by preventing fire loss and wasteful cutting and also plant more trees to take the place of those cut down.

During baby's teething time, especially in the last summer months, the bowels become loose and diarrhoea, dysentery, colic, cramps, etc., are manifested in the body, and the stools are thin and cankers form in the mouth.

This is the time when the mother should give the baby "Fowler's" and, perhaps, save the baby's life.

Gun-Running Plot

Aeroplane Machines Guns Smuggled From England to Russia
Imports are being made by the police into a gun-running expedition from London to Russia, in which an unknown foreign vessel and a London fishing smack co-operated.

Recently Yard had discovered that 55 machine guns had been shipped abroad under the nose of the authorities, and also that had the ring remained a secret gun-running on a much larger scale would have followed, until 1,000 guns had been got out of the country.

It is known that the guns, which were bought by a London firearms dealer, were taken by him from the factory to a wharf not far from London Bridge. Here they were called for on board a London fishing smack and taken on board.

The smack then sailed to a point about 20 miles off the Gobards Lightship, east of Harwich, where it met a mysterious foreign vessel and transferred the guns to her. This vessel sailed for Portugal.

All the ports of England have been watched and many ships searched.

Separation But No Alimony

A peaceful, quiet separation, no damage done, hardly enough again that you divorce your partner. Try Putnam's Corn Extract. Acts like magic, no need for harsh words or a bitter Rotten substitute for Putnam's.

Establishing Radio Stations

Vancouver and Montreal Are In Empire Wireless Programme

Radio stations are to be established near Montreal and Vancouver as links in the wireless network of the British Empire, the result of arrangements just completed between the British Government, the Department of Marine and Fisheries of Canada and the affiliated Marconi Company.

The stations which are to be short wave, or "beam" stations, will be owned and operated by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company of Canada, and will be used for the transmission of 100 words a minute which will cost approximately $100,000 each.

Licenses have been issued by the department permitting the Marconi Company to proceed promptly with the work.

The English station in the new service will be built by the English Marconi Company, and will be operated by the British post office, the latter taking care of the general receipts to the Marconi Company in Canada, in respect to patent royalties.

The arrangements concluded between the British post office and the English Marconi Company are based on the Canadian service. The Marconi Company has accepted the principle put forward by the British Government, that the English station now in course of construction will be the best service under all conditions.

Increase In Exports

Port of Vancouver Seas Big Business This Season

According to statistics prepared by the Merchants' Exchange, approximately 1,000,000 feet of lumber were shipped on the flat at Vancouver during the six months of this year ending June 30, against 125,000,000 feet for the same period last year.

For the year's exports the Orientals took a little more than half, while United States' ports took a little more than 100,000,000 feet.

Canned salmon exports stand at about 150,000 cases, against about 150,000 boxes last year, and 225,000 the year before.

Wheat exports for the last six months were about 43,000,000 bushels, against 11,000,000 bushels last year.

Four also showed a big improvement in exports, going as high as 730,000 barrels, against 450,000 barrels last year.

Coal shipments also showed a big spot on the export sheet, going up to nearly 15,000 boxes this year against 1,700 boxes for the same six months last year.

Theory and Practice

Easier to Suggest Changes Than to Carry Them Out

Premier MacDonald of Great Britain is a frank and honest man. He admits that he and his party would not have admitted him if they came into power.

Speaking of his Government's scheme for creating new employment, for those who needed it, he said it was the "one thing that we could do." He also said that the party would have been unable to carry out what they came into power.
